STEWART MINER INJURED

Special to The Courier
MOUNT PLEASANT, April 25.—The Byron G. Harlan Company of entertainers was at the Grand Opera House last evening under the auspices of the Nemacolin Club and delighted a large audience. Two phonograph records were made, one by Miss Theresa Santora, well-known Mount Pleasant girl who Mr. Harlan discovered after the making of the record had a wonderful voice, with whom it was arranged if she desired to make records to go on to the factory for a tryout. Miss Harlan discovered in Miss Santora a voice of more than usual ability and one that sounds well on a record. Miss Santora is a graduate of the Mount Pleasant Institute, of the Boston Conservatory of Music. She has been abroad and has studied under several of the best-known Old World teachers.

The other record was made by Martin Gregor, cornetist, and this reproduced exceptionally well, Mr. Harlan feeling proud of both records.

A CLEAR COMPLEXION

Ruddy Cheeks—Sparkling Eyes—
Most Women Can Have

Says Dr. Edwards, a Well-Known Ohio Physician.

Dr. F. M. Edwards for 17 years treated scores of women for liver and bowel ailments. During these years he gave to his patients a prescription made of a few well-known vegetable ingredients mixed with olive oil, naming them Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. You will know them by their olive color.

These tablets are wonder-workers on the liver and bowels, which cause a normal action, carrying off the waste and poisonous matter in one's system.

If you have a pale face, yellow look, dull eyes, pain in certain joints, aches and pains, no good feeling, all out of sorts, inactive bowels, take one of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets nightly for a time and note the pleasing results.

Thousands of women and men take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the successful substitute for colostrum—now and then just to keep them fit. 15c and 30c.

STATE TO HAVE ACCESS TO WARD CASE MESSAGES

By Associated Press.

ALBANY, N. Y., April 25.—Supreme Justice Staley yesterday denied the application of counsel for Walter S. Ward of New Robelle for an injunction restraining the Western Union and the Postal Telegraph companies from turning over to State Attorney General Sharman copies of cablegrams and telegrams exchanged between members of the Ward family just prior to the murder of Clarence Peters of Haverhill, Mass. The messages were sought by the attorney general in connection with his investigation of the alleged killing of Peters by Ward.

Reviewing some of the evidence produced at the hearings, the court pointed out that Ralph Ward, a brother of Walter, had testified regarding an exchange of cable messages and telegrams between himself, Walter and their father, George S., a wealthy baker, pertaining to Walter's request for a large sum of money and the father's consent to advance the money provided it was not for blackmail.

"Sleepers" in Railroad Bed

The most common explanation of the term sleepers is that the legs repose in the bed of the railroad. Unfortunately for this theory, the particular word occurs not only in connection with railroads but in other industries, being always used as a technical term for pieces of timber or metal fixed in a horizontal position.

It's real origin is the Norwegian "stokk" which meant timber, wood or even stone laid so as to form a convenient surface to drag things over.

Originally used as a technical term in the days when our railroads were built it did not take long for our navy laborers to corrupt the word into the nearest English it sounded like, and so sleep became our common "sleepers". Our word "slab" comes from the same Norwegian word.

Horses' Padometers

The whorls of hair on the coats of horses and other animals may be called animal padometers because they register the locomotive activities of the creatures on whose bodies they are found. The best examples and the greatest number of these hairy whorls and creases are found on the domestic horse. A notable instance is the graceful feathering that extends along the low of the flank dividing quarters. There are also creases and whorls on the horse's chest and other parts of his body.

Plans for the popularity contest to be conducted by the South Connellsville Firemen were discussed at a meeting held last night in the fire station. A committee composed of H. R. Robinson W. B. Holmes and Joseph Hill was appointed. Friday night at 7:30 o'clock a meeting will be held at the firemen's headquarters at which the names of all contestants will be turned in and entered.

Envelopes for enclosing the names of the participants entering the contest had been distributed and persons who desire to enter and have not received envelopes may secure them from Joseph Hill. Meetings will be held each Friday evening until the time of the contest and all girls who are entered are requested to attend.

The contest will close with a festival to be held June 11, 12 and 13, the following committee having been appointed to take charge—Ralph Miller, Walter Baker, A. W. White, W. D. Kiffner, H. T. Robinson, W. B. Holmes and Joseph Hill. These men also compose the finance committee.

The proceeds are to be used for the purchase of new uniforms for the firemen.

WEAR ONLY LOOSE GARMENTS

Tight Fitting Articles of Apparel Unknown Among the Eskimos—Their Boots Absolutely Water-proof.

The Eskimo makes a point of wearing the loosest garments imaginable and no tight fitting underclothes. An author agrees that it is largely because of this that the Eskimos are the hardiest race in the world. As babies they go unclad and hence carried about in hoods of their mothers' turn.

The Eskimo feet also rate as great care. Their pants are covered with mukluk or the only absolute waterproof tool in existence. It is made of seal skin without the fur "taimed" and kept pliable by chewing. The parts are sewn together with deer sinew in a lo-kitch which no other race seems to understand. Within this boot is worn the hair being fur to the foot. Stock and boot come off together and every night they are dried on a framework rigged above a large oil lamp which is kept burning constantly for this purpose and for the melting of snow for drinking water.

Who is Fastest Typist?
Men are more rapid typists than women. Men are slower typists than women. Doctor J. Keen Cattell, president of the Psychological Corporation believes that these apparently contradictory statements are true, although the question cannot be definitely determined until sufficiently large groups of men and women have been examined and compared.

But the typist of exceptional speed would be more likely to be a man. Dr. Cattell says for it has been demonstrated that men are more variable than women. Men are more frequently color blind than women but the geologists have been seen as are the great performers on the piano and violin. This difference tends to the low e animals. The male bird of paradise is more brilliant colored and handsomely ornamented and tamed than the female.

Postoffice Head to Cabinet. In 1829 the office of postmaster general created upon the organization of the postoffice system in 1794, was not deemed of sufficient importance and dignity to entitle its incumbent to a seat in the President's councils and it was not until 1829 that by action of President Jackson the postmaster general became a cabinet officer.

The secretary of commerce was established as a member of the cabinet February 11, 1880. The department of commerce and labor was added to the cabinet February 14, 1903. In 1913 this department was divided.

Even the heroes are not the chief national heroes of Greece. The interest lies wholly (so far as we can see) in the play of human action and feeling.

MANY CASES ON DOCKET FOR MAY TERM, GREENSBURG

GREENSBURG April 25.—With 210 cases already listed and with the prospect that this list will be augmented by at least 50 more cases the trial term of quarter sessions or criminal court which commences for its next week Monday May 14 promises to be heavier by far than the previous term last October.

The list of not yet charged with violations of the liquor laws is a heavy one, in usual no less than 125 cases, but having been docketed while no doubt there will be additions to this list it is thought possible that a number of the cases will be disposed of at the regular monthly session of quarter and criminal court this Friday April 27.

Other hearings remain to be tried by the three judges on the second week of criminal court which starts Monday May 21 and of this list the persons will answer to a charge of murder while six persons will be tried for manslaughter.

Two or three of the murder cases have been continued over from the February term, one being the case of a young youth against Arthur Whittier of Connellsville, a colored man who has been in prison in the county jail since the autumn of 1921. Whittier is a condemned man at the last library term of criminal court but shortly after the arraignment of his jury one of the jurors was taken ill which held up the trial for several days and finally resulted in the case being continued over until May when it was found the sick juror was unable to continue.

The balance of the list comprises a casual number of lesser charges such as assault, minor traffic, robbery, aggravated and simple assault and battery and crimes against the state.

The following list of defendants will answer to a charge of disorderly conduct and non support at Friday's session of quarter and criminal court: John G. Rhodes, Robert William John and George Donohoe; Peter G. Maxwell, William H. Fox, Marshall J. Smith, Thomas Walker and Paul Atkinson.

Appeals will be taken to the justices of the peace docked in the case against John and Frank McNeil and V. C. Moeller charged with cruelty to horses and by A. Delaney charged with maintaining a disorderly house.

At the Theatres

THE PARAMOUNT

A DANGEROUS AGE, showing today and tomorrow at this theatre, is a romance of spooks and love. Gladys Walton has in this a starring role combining moderate dramatic intensity with human comedy. Opposite her Robert Agnew will be seen, and the supporting cast includes Edward Johnson, Spottiswoode Aitken, Kuto Price, Harry Carter, Christine Mayo, Anne Schönbar, Otto Hoffman, Roma Gore, William Robert Daly and Jim Gibbs. Thy direction of the exceptional story was entrusted to King Baggot, the artist behind many Walton successes and "Human Hearts" and "The Kentucky Derby," two all-star spectacles. Hugh Hofstein prepared the scenario to give the written story the right screen emphasis, and Victor Miller, the camera artist always associated with Baggot, photographed. The appeal of the farces and fairy stories to children is incorporated in the story in dreams of the little heroine, and it is said that this is just the sort of story one would expect to find in the "Ladies' Home Journal"—clean, wholesome—filled with natural human qualities. A backwoods' home shared by the girl, her father and the gentle fancies of the open, and a large tree, are the locales.

Friday and Saturday "A Daughter of the West" will be shown.

THE OLYMPIA.

THE DANGEROUS AGE, showing today at this theatre, is a Pa. mount attraction presenting an all-star cast. "The Dangerous Age," is evidence of the tremendous strides which have been made in the realm of the photoplay. Its story is a powerful one, replete with terribly dramatic situations that hold the spectators spellbound. "Big moments" literally take place among the plot complications, furnishing thrills by the score. Mr. Stahl's movie outfit has transformed a strip of celluloid into a living, breathing, pulsating story. And the cast! Never, in our estimation, has such an aggregation of actors of stellar ability been gathered together into one cast, for among them are Lewis S. Stone, the "grand old man of the films"; Ruth Clifford, Cho Mallison, Edward Burna, Edith Roberts, Myrtle Stedman, James Morrison, Belcher, Richard Tucker and Helen Lynch. It is a picture that all lovers of the silent drama will relish—and remember.

Thursday, Friday and Saturday, "Broken Chords," will be shown.

THE ORPHEUM.

"BELLADONNA," celebrated actress in her first American-made picture, is attracting record-breaking crowds at this theatre.

Putting her personality and artistry to perfection, "Belladonna" is a screen creation by this gifted actress that will live long in the memory of those who see this remarkable drama classic. "Belladonna" brings an immortalized Pola Negri to the screen, and it is as delightful as it is impressive. The story is of a woman's love for an Arab chieftain, for whom she quits her husband, Nigel Arundell, played by Conrad Nagel. Conway Tearle is the other man in the picture. The climax is a real novelty, although essentially tragic.

Robert Hichens is the author of the novel from which Ouida Bergère made the adaptation. George Fitzmaurice supervised the production. Lois Wilson is featured and Macy Harlan and Robert Schable have prominent parts. The story is a romantic tragedy and impresses all alike by its dramatic strength and interest.

The reproductions of the famous ruins, buildings and scenery of Egypt for this Paramount picture have won high praise from the critics and technical experts of the film center who were privileged to see them. The picture will also be shown Thursday.

Friday and Saturday Jack Holt will appear in "Making a Man."

THE ARCADE.

"TOO MANY SWEETHEARTS"—It's wealth of clean wholesome comedy good-looking girls, attractively costumed, pretty scenes effects and musical variety features, to other with the big picture serve to furnish a good blasting entertainment. On the bill at the Arcade Theatre, today and Thursday should leave nothing to be desired. The big thing on the program is the musical comedy, "Too Many Sweethearts," which is presented by Clarence Marks. The company is headed by Fred Shutt, Arthur Strom, Leslie Best, Edna Davis, and Fred Jordan, and there is everything to please and nothing to offend. Musical numbers are of the kind that cause you to go away from the theatre smiling or whistling, and the comedy situations are such that produce laughter without being offensive or overdrawn. The producer has paid special attention to the costuming and scene effects. With that nothing is left to be desired. Besides the daily and less two performances will be given each evening.

Pour hot cream and butter over the combination.

Turnip seeds for a crop to mature with the peas should be sown as soon as the ground can be worked. They should be thinned early to six inches apart to secure fast growth. Saw the seed thinly and half an inch deep, and give them at least 18 inches apart in the rows. Tomato plants may be set at three foot intervals between the rows to take the place of the turnips when they are harvested and allowed to grow along without interfering with the turnips. These early season white turnips grown rapidly are usually of finer quality, milder flavor and tenderer of flesh than the late maturing crop, for winter use. ## ALEX WAS WAGNER'S JINX

If there were many Grover Alexanders in the National League during the days of Honus Wagner, that mighty batsman wouldn't possess the impressive batting record he now has. Honus Wagner, during the period that he and Grover Alexander were playing the circuit, faced each other 100 times and the man from Nebraska held the man from Allegheny county, Pennsylvania, to 20 base hits which meant an insignificant batting average of .200. Honus made no homers, no triples and only two doubles in the 100 times he tried to solve the curves of the truly great hurler.

Manager Frank Chance
Has Been Panned Before

Back in 1906 Chicago fans became very angry when the Cubs gave a raft of players to Brooklyn for Jimmy Sheppard. Among the players Frank Chance passed over to the Dodgers were Pitcher Buttons Briggs, Outfielder Boots McCarthy, Infielder Jimmy Casey and Catcher Maloney.

Cub fans didn't mind the acquisition of Sheppard, but they thought that Charles Webb Murphy, the new Chicago owner, gave too much of the club's strength for one man.

It turned out that the coming of Sheppard proved just the thing to convert the Cubs into a championship machine. He helped Chicago win pennants and world's championships, while the players Chicago sent to Brooklyn soon drifted out of the fast set and the transaction that Cub partisans thought to be so daring turned out to be the biggest "sucker" trade in history.

Perhaps history will repeat itself in his Peacock trade. Pitcher Murray, infielder McMillan, and Outfielder Danner have never been first-stringers, even though, of course, they may improve, but yet it must stand on the records that the Yanks gave none of half important strength, yet received one of the best pitchers in the nation.

Veteran Bill Brennan
Has Retired From Ring

Bill Brennan, the veteran heavyweight, has retired from the boxing game for all time. Brennan announced, after leaving the hospital where he was under the care of physicians following the bout, that he would never enter the ring again, and he has again reiterated his intention. He is preparing to go into business.

Gustavus T. Kirby will referee the annual intercollegiate track and field games at Philadelphia, May 25 and 26.

Manager Frank Chance of the Red Sox has sent Babe Herman, recruit infielder obtained from Detroit, to the Atlanta.

Douglas Lawson, Williams' fine coach, has resigned and will act as assistant to Percy Haughton, New Columbia coach.

DEPENDS ON VETERANS

Manager Branch Rickey of the St. Louis Cardinals is quoted as saying he does not base hopes on any of his new pitchers coming through this season—if one does he will be agreeably surprised—and that the veterans of the staff will have to carry the burden. By the time 1924 rolls around, however, Rickey thinks the younger pitchers will be far enough advanced to take charge of the situation. El Myers will make his outfit, says Rickey, so that now it is up to the pitchers, fielders and catchers to put the Cardinals in the first division.

Has Much Confidence
in Catcher Devormer

Frank Chance, having been a catcher himself, thinks he knows one when he sees him, and it was his liking for the work of Al Devormer which caused the new Red Sox manager to seek the player's services. No sooner had Chance got him bearings as the Boston boss than he began angling with the Yankees for a deal.

Devormer is not to be classed as a veteran, but he has had enough experience to make him a wise and reliable backstop, and with Harold Irwin gone from Boston, Al probably will do the bulk of the team's catching, for he is big and strong and can stand the work—work he never had a chance to do with the Yankees.

Devormer got his early training under such a wise manager as Bill Essick, in the Central League. When Essick went to the coast as manager of the Vernon team he took Devormer with him, and he immediately made good in class AA company. He finished out the year of 1918 with the Chicago White Sox, spent the next two seasons back in Vernon and was sold to the Yankees at the end of 1920, after which followed two years of doctoring the bench under Miller Huggins. Now he has a chance to work again and is happy.

It is a mighty poor baseball team that will not be a pennant contender for at least another month.

About the only thing left for Molla Mallory is to challenge Suzanne to a ten-round bout.

It is not the physical discomfort so much as the serious setback to one's early spring golf.

Eczema

Here's something about S.S.S. that you'll be glad to hear.

We know there is one thing that stops eczema and that is more red-blood-cells. S. S. S. builds them by the million! You can increase your red-blood-cells to the point where it is practically impossible for eczema to exist.

We know that an adult collects perhaps 10 million red blood-immatured cells daily.

We also know that right now day.

Both are facts. But have you eczema sufferers ever actually taken advantage of this wonderful fact? Thousands just like you have never thought about it. Skin eruptions, eczema with all its fiery, siding-torture and its soul-tearing, unreachable itching, pimples, blackheads and boils, they all pack up and go, when the tide of blood-cells begins to roll in! Blood cells are the fighting giants of nature! S. S. S. builds them by the million! It has been doing it since 1888! S. S. More Fatalities in Pitching Than in Level Coal Seams

That the hazards of coal mining are greater in pitching seams than in level workings is indicated by a comparison of the accident experience of the anthracite mines in Pennsylvania with that of the bituminous mines in the same state, plus the United States Coal Commission by W. W.

Adams, statistician, Bureau of Mines.

Moreover, the difficulties attending mining in the anthracite field where most of the coal veins considerably exceed the horizontal extent in length, are considerably smaller production of coal per employee underground than in the bituminous region where nearly all of the mines are at level or gently dip.

During the 11-year period, 1911-1921, the number of fatal accidents in proportion to the number of men employed underground, was 40 per million in anthracite mines than in bituminous mines. During the same period, the anthracite miners averaged only two-thirds as much accidents per capita as did the bituminous miners. The accident rate in anthracite fields was 1.56 per million in 1911 and 1.41 in 1921, while the corresponding rates in the bituminous fields were 2.61 in 1911 and

TELLS OF GERMAN BLUNDERS IN WAR

U. S. Intelligence Chief Relates
Some War-Time Secrets.

MADE BAD MISTAKE AT LIEGE

Interesting in idle facts regarding blunders in the World War due to misinformation supplied by intelligence agents were disclosed by Capt. Luke McNamee chief of the Office of Naval Intelligence in an address heard by Secretary Denby and members of the congressional party en route to London to attend the naval fleet maneuvers.

Captain McNamee who was stationed in London during the war on service in the war planning section, also dealt with some of the achievement of the British navy as a result of accurate naval intelligence and told of the early acquisition and dissemination of information which resulted in prompt mobilization by the British navy in connection with the battle of Dogger Bank.

Concerned in on the methods used for keeping tabs on the German submarines Captain McNamee said:

"Frequently very detailed orders were known by the British before the submarines left port. How this was done is not known in some of the instances.
This causes remarkable errors in the joining neutral powers can help, but the indications of approaching rebel forces to the top brass. Had Germany been able to keep in sight
the British fleet in the North Sea it would have been a simple matter of getting it to fire to be ready to strike."

Without such an estimate said Captain McNamee, "we could not have had such a depth of amazement."

After a review of what actually was done in the way of naval and military intelligence during the World War Captain McNamee believed at the possible use of secret radio in the next war. He said if many messages were to be sent in cipher that the British probably would send a code book but learn it secret to the enemy.

I am not speaking of what is desirable, however," said Captain McNamee, "but what was actually done in the World War we can be sure that the secret value of the improvement today. It may be that the one chief source of information the radio will be the next great war be entirely lost to us if secret radio is well within the possibilities. The advantage of having possession of such equipment needs no comment."

Captain McNamee cited several mistakes made by the British in the takes of offend Germany. In the war to support his contention that the four great factors—military, political, economic and psychological—were so in-terlocked that no sound war plan could be devised without a careful estimate of

Nations in Arms in Modern War

Captain McNamee declared that the day had passed when armies or navies made up while the mass of the people enjoyed their normal life of peace. Modern war is a cold mountain in more than one industry and dissemination of information which resulted in prompt mobilization by the British navy in connection with the battle of Dogger Bank.

SAY RAINMAKING IS FUTILE TASK

U. S. Weather Bureau Scoffs at Schemes for Affecting Air.

ENORMOUS FORCES REQUIRED

Rainmaking, in the official opinion of the United States weather bureau, is an "entirely futile undertaking," as are other schemes for artificially affecting atmospheric behavior.

"The government's meteorologists," said a statement by the bureau, "do not know of any scheme for the artificial production of rain on a scale of practical magnitude, nor for otherwise affecting atmospheric behavior. In spite of these facts, statements appear at intervals in the press heralding new ways of making rain, preventing rain or fog or foretelling the disastrous effects of storm. These ideas are not new."

Can Precipitate Moisture

"It is true that in the laboratory a small amount of moisture can be precipitated by the use of special equipment. But widespread drought is due to lack of sufficient moisture in the atmosphere and the absence of other conditions essential to the formation of rain. If there is little moisture to bring down, obviously no device for causing rain artificially has any value, because of the absurdity of supposing human agencies can supply adequate amounts of water for extended areas when the atmosphere itself is practically dry."

"To produce one inch of rainfall over an area of an acre, approximately 313 tons of moisture would have to be drawn up into the air and then precipitated. For a square mile 72,820 tons of moisture would be required. A square mile, however, would be scarcely a dot in the center of any section where drought prevails, as in Arizona or parts of Texas."

"Enormous forces are required in nature to elevate moisture above the earth before it can be precipitated. Billions of horsepower are represented in the cloud that spreads over house-top; and even if some artificial means were found to cause the aggregation and fall as rain, of the infinitesimal drops of which it is made up, calculation shows only a trifling amount of precipitation would result. There must be some way by which the moisture-laden atmosphere can be lifted to a considerably higher altitude, to lower its temperature and thus precipitate a considerable part of its moisture content."

Recall "Hail-Shooting" Scheme. Among other weather-controlling projects which have been relegated to the limbo of the impossible, the bureau recalled the "hail-shooting" scheme that excited Europe ten years ago, by which crops were to be protected from hail or rain by the shooting of bombs into the air to dissipate oncoming storms. A more recently projected scheme in this country, which the bureau said to be "economically impossible," contemplated the use of powerful fans at the base of high towers for forcing upward great quantities of air and thus simulating conditions in rain-producing storms or cyclones.

As to the man who contracted with farmers in drought-stricken regions to produce by a secret chemical process an inch or more of rain within a period of two or three months, at a consideration of $1,000 an inch, the bureau regarded the scheme as a good one—from his standpoint. If the rain came, it said, he collected the fee; if it failed, he didn't.

BITES THROUGH IRON CHAINS

Athlete's Performance Astounds Physicians and Engineers. That a Jewish athlete named Breitbart, thirty-four, 6 feet 8 inches in height and weighing 210 pounds, can bite through steel, is vouched for by a medical correspondent of the London Lancet.

Breitbart's performances astounded a committee of physicians, engineers, smiths and president of athletic corporations who saw him sever with his teeth several iron and steel chains one-fifth of an inch thick; bend into a circle iron rods half an inch square, using his mouth as a fulcrum; bend over his head a rail four inches thick by two and a half inches.

The correspondent says: "The committee is satisfied that he accomplishes these tasks by means of extraordinary muscular power coupled with excellent scientific training and muscular energy."

WHY THE PAINT STICKS

Condensed Milk and Cocoa Mixed Used on Houses.

Miss Georgia Ely of Olivet, Mich., just returned from Poland, where she did missionary work, said that quite as important as the sending of food was the necessity of some one being on the ground to see that the natives knew what to do with it."

"I went into one town in Poland," Miss Ely said, "and found that almost every house was resplendent in brown. I noticed that the paint seemed sort of sticky and I investigated."

"I found that a shipment of cocoa and one of condensed milk had been sent from America, but the natives, unfamiliar with it, believed it to be paint, so they mixed the two and coated their houses."

Woman's Dilapidated Produce Wagon Yields 21 Gallons of Liquor Hidden Under Eggs

Discovery Made by Chief of Police McCadden, Who Suspected Her.

FINE OF $100 IS IMPOSED

Special to The Courier.

SCOTTDALE, April 25.—Chief of Police Frank McCadden, who for some time had been watching a woman from the country driving into Scottdale, felt that all was not well with the produce that was being hauled. But he never was able to find the woman before she had gone "to market" until Monday. There was nothing about the conveyance used by the woman to excite unusual interest, just an old-fashioned spring wagon and a poor old horse. But when Chief McCadden searched under the few potatoes and eggs that were being sold, he found a lot of moonshine whisky that proofed 110 in old-fashioned half-gallon jars, set in baskets.

The woman gave her name as Mary Traylor of Mondon.

Nine dozens of eggs and then potatoes in bushel baskets covered the jars, filled with liquor, the chief said.

Many paid $100 fine and the whisky was taken by the police.

Twenty-one gallons of the liquor was found.

Tennis Association Will Hold Annual Banquet May 15

Committee Sets Date and Will Prepare for About 80 Members.

SEASON WILL OPEN SOON

The banquet committee of the Connellsville Tennis Association met last night in the offices of Isadore Morewitz and set the date for the affair as May 15. It will be held in the Caeney Restaurant in the Royal Hotel. About 30 or 40 members are expected to attend.

The committee, composed of Isadore Morewitz, H. J. Carr, and James M. Driscoll, will at once send notices to members of the association, asking for their immediate acceptance, and the greater part of the membership is expected to attend. The banquet is one of the most popular functions held by the tennis association.

With the courts probably ready to open by next week enthusiasm among the players will be on the increase by the date for the banquet. It is somewhat later than usual this season but the intensity of the spring had something to do with it, delaying the early start on the courts and as a consequence the banquet was also held off.

HIGH SCHOOL YOUTHS DOWN TO HARD WORK FOR FIELD CONTEST

Coach Wink's tremendous job of whipping his material into shape for the field meet of the Fayette County Inter-scholastic Athletic Association, to be held at the Dawson Fair Grounds on May 12, has been made more heartening by the appearance on the field of some of the husky lads who made up the football and basketball teams.

"Mickey" McCormick is a likely candidate for the shot put and Van Maclette is another lad who has lots of pounds to put behind the iron ball.

Johnny Ross, said to be a broad jumper of ability, is showing form in the high jump. Donald La Rue and Paul Curtis are other high jumpers.

The sprinters are Joe May, Leopold Schuster, and Charles Lowe. These boys are speedy and may gain a point or two for the Oranges and Black. Another sprinter is Almost Blockinger of Dawson. He has not been able to report for practice on the field but is working out individually each evening at his home.

Included among the distance runners are Kell Long, a lad who has shown the spirit by trying out for football, basketball and now track. In the former two his work kept him off the team but he had the skill from which real sportmen are made and stuck to the end of every season although he did only scratch. Other runners in the same class are Edward Norster, John Whiteman and James Warfley. There is an abundance of other material in the school but the boys have not shown a great tendency to work out.

Robert and Paul Curtis, Somerset N.Y., "Or" Wink and John Bowser are all practicing for this event.

DE-SULPHURIZATION OF COKE BY STEAM CARNEGIE TECH PLAN

PITTSBURG, April 25.—A study of the de-sulphurization of coke by steam is one of the four important problems undertaken this year at Carnegie Institute of Technology, in cooperation with the United States Bureau of Mines. Each of the problems was suggested by an advisory committee of coal mine operators and engineers. The research work is a continuation of the cooperative plan inaugurated last year by the advisory board, the Bureau of Mines and Carnegie Tech.

Alfred R. Powell, physical chemist, United States Bureau of Mines, and John H. Thompson, research fellow, Carnegie Institute of Technology, are studying the de-sulphurization problem.

The other investigations being conducted simultaneously are:

Correlation of coal beds of Western Pennsylvania through their microscopic constituents with the Pittsburgh bed as the basis of study, by Reinhardt Thieissen, research chemist, United States Bureau of Mines, and James N. Staudt, research fellow, Carnegie Institute of Technology.

Fundamental research in the corrosion of alloys in various media, by Robert J. Anderson, metallurgist, United States Bureau of Mines, and James R. Adams, research fellow, Carnegie Institute of Technology.

A study of low-temperature tar from typical Pennsylvania coals, with the Pittsburgh bed as the basic of study, by Joseph D. Davis, fuels chemist, United States Bureau of Mines, and V. F. Parry, research fellow, Carnegie Institute of Technology.

As was the case in connection with the investigations conducted during the preceding year, Carnegie Tech will publish the results of studies soon after completion, according to an announcement.

OF Interest to Fans.

Untown will have an independent baseball team. It will be backed by the Elks' Lodge and a fence will be put around the park on Grant street. No name has been adopted for the club. It is the first independent team to represent Untown in 20 years. If the club develops into a strong team an interesting series with the Connellsville Independents would be a great drawing card.

The Captain mno played a practice game yesterday with the Trump Run team. Both Lohr and Moorman were given an opportunity to try their blunts from the mound.

George Blitner, manager of the Colonial Independents, has signed "Punch" McCashin as catcher for his team. The season will open May 1 with the Trump Run team as opponents.

The Pittsburgh Pirates lost the last in the series with Cincinnati, 5-4, yesterday. A ninth inning rally threatened to tie the score but the Blue could make only two runs.

Hube Ruth got his second homer of the season yesterday and the Yankees defeated Washington, 4-0.

KEPHART PLANS TRIP TO EUROPE; FAMILY ON TOUR

HARRISBURG, April 25.—Costs in the case against former State Treasurer Harmon Kephart, who was fined $3,125 Monday by the Dauphin County Court after a plea of no defense to the charges growing out of the audit of the Treasury, amounted to $220. The costs as well as the fine go to Dauphin county. The State does not receive anything.

Bolter horo is the former treasurer who remains as deputy and commissioner of trusts for a week or so, and will then retire. It is understood he contemplates a trip to Europe, as members of his family are in France.

Untown Property Sold.

James Collins, for years superintendent of the courthouse in Untown, and a member of the well-known Collins family of that city closed a deal Monday by which the Collins farm, located near the canal bank in the east end goes to the Arnold Brothers Realty Company, for $25,000. ## MILADY CHOOSES STYLES TO SUIT

Will Be Women's Fault If They Fail to Select Proper and Becoming Clothes.

The American woman looks to the designers of her own land for her best expression in clothes, and this season much has been done to please the smartly dressed woman, writes a fashion correspondent in the New York Times. The designers say we no longer must be extremely young in our appearance, neither must we make any effort to be too necessarily dignified. We are to be allowed, it seems, to choose our own styles from among so many models and designs that it will be our own fault if we should fail to find just the proper and most becoming thing.

Among the many creations we find high lights. They are important in that they go to make up the fashion, but none of them is so startling as to constitute a complete change. The gowns as they appear to the casual eye are still straight and rather long. But the straightness is made up of more fullness of material than has been the case in the past. The length is a static thing that stays where it was through the last season, and, in some cases, is shorter by some inches. The tailored suits of tweed, for instance, will be quite short, and as the skirts are tight they are often slit at the left side, so that the leg appears when walking almost up to the knee.

One designer goes so far as to believe that American women eventually will wear bloomers, instead of petticoats, under all of their daytime dresses. She is making models of printed crepe, of white broadcloth, of rayon silk—in fact, of any fabric that is used for wear during the day-time.

The skirts open at one side off the way to the waistline. They button at the hem with three buttons. They can be left closed or swing open and loose. And the bloomers underneath, made of the same material, serve to complete that dress.

Sleeves Large and Flowing.
Sleeves are still large and flowing in many of the costumes. They are trimmed gaily. In none of the suits and dresses they hold the center of interest, pushing all other features of the design aside. As the skirts grow wider and are trimmed with flounces and pinwheels, the sleeves sink into a secondary place, and then, in their humility, are made short and tight and with no trimming whatever.

Draped dresses are the order of the day. The silk or crepe or the light woolen material is taken in hand by the clever designer and the folds are swirled and swooped about the figure until there results a frock that is simply a series of beautifully contrasted lines put together in a miraculous way. For these dresses there is little or no trimming. If there is a girdle or a buckle or a bow to finish off the ending of their folds, these decorations are done in colors and shapes that harmonize splendidly with the general design of the frock itself.

Evening frocks are in two distinct classes. One of these is the draped class. The materials used in making are crepe and satin and wool, the latter being the newest thing upon the horizon. Then there are the frocks with full skirts and tight little bodices. They are made from taffeta or many layers of chiffon and they are particularly quaint in their designs, suited to the more youthful types of figure, which can afford to carry about layers of fullness and many bows with draping ribbon trimmings.

Printed Dress Is Featured.
The printed dress is one of the features for spring. One sees it everywhere. There is no end to the patterns and designs and the combinations of colors that are represented by the frocks of printed silk. They are made, usually, over the plainness of models. But they certainly are becoming and beautiful in the extreme, and every woman is likely to decide upon having at least one of them. When the whole dress is not made of the printed material, then half of it manages to show pattern, and the lower part of the dress is made of a woolen material or a plain silk or something that contrasts with the pattern of the silk above. There are printed silks and printed chiffons, all of them most interesting when made up in the plain little frocks which will be popular all through the spring and summer seasons.

Dresses for the street are made of the softest of woolen materials, some in kidia, cloth, some in light-weight velvets and others, in wool crepes. One of the newest outlines is the skirt with three tiers. These flounces are made over a circular pattern, a skirt that is particularly becoming to the slim and youthful figure. The dress of this character has trimmings of black around the edges, and the frock itself is made of a light shade of tan. After the black has been applied along the edges, there ensues an interval of black and white striped ribbon that helps to accentuate the decoration.

Wraps for the spring are made along large and ample lines. There is, first of all, the straight coat, which is on the side with a bow of ribbon and usually has a huge bow of satin ribbon to tie the coat together on one side. There is a fur collar, too, and a straight line to the coat which carries the idea of the silhouette of the season. Some of these coats are embroidered in all-over designs and there is no portion of the coat which is left without that embroidered ornamentation. Even the collars are embroidered and made so wide that they fold about the throat in a graceful manner.

Short Coats Are Draped.

There are short, graceful, and draped coats which will be a strong feature of the early spring styles and they promise to carry over into the summer. A short coat can be made of almost any material. It may be embroidered, made of some brightly colored fabric, or it can have the same tone as the skirt; made of another sort of material. The fact is that there is so much chance with these little housed jackets to create differing and unusual effects that they have been pounced upon by the smart women and worn so that they display the foremost elements of fashion.

Light-colored short coats will be worn with white skirts or light-toned dresses. And the dark coats covered with embroidery will be worn with the darker toned silk dresses during the early spring to demonstrate the fashion as it exists at present.

There are some straight coat to be seen and these are made of the same materials that go to make up the shorter box-line coats. Then we are working our way slowly toward a three-quarter coat which will be popular about the middle of the summer.

Many of the three-piece suits are made with short coats that come to a long waistline and end there, showing a skirt that is made of the same material and a bodice or a top to the skirt that is made of some brilliantly contrasting material.

Many of the three-piece suits show coats that are exaggerated in their shortness, but others are displaying coats longer and more conservative in line. If a woman is at all large about the hips she does not want to indulge too strenuously in the coat that spans across the hips, but she can well afford to adhere to the coat that is of three-quarter length and without a belt or anything to accentuate the hip line or the waist. Many of the costume suits are made on this general plan and they are really the most satisfactory things that the American designers have produced. They show a surface that is dark in color or light in tone with the same shades running in the same shade running all the way from the shoulder to the knee.

Constance Talmadge To Wed Composer Is Gossip On Broadway

NEW YORK.—"Connie" Talmadge to wed again? Absolutely, say all her friends. This time it is to be John Charles Thomas, the composer, and though the engagement has not been announced yet (it is reported likely to be the wedding, since the impulsive "Connie" eloped once, and may again) it is expected momentarily.

Thomas was recently divorced by his wife in Reno. The name of Miss Talmadge, which she was once thought to be about to change for that of Mrs. Irving Berlin, has been coupled with that of William Rhinelander Stewart, Jr., who has danced attendance on the fair young movie actress since her divorce from her Greek spouse, John Pialoglu.

IS THE FRENCH GIRL MORE BEAUTIFUL THAN BEST AMERICAN TYPE?

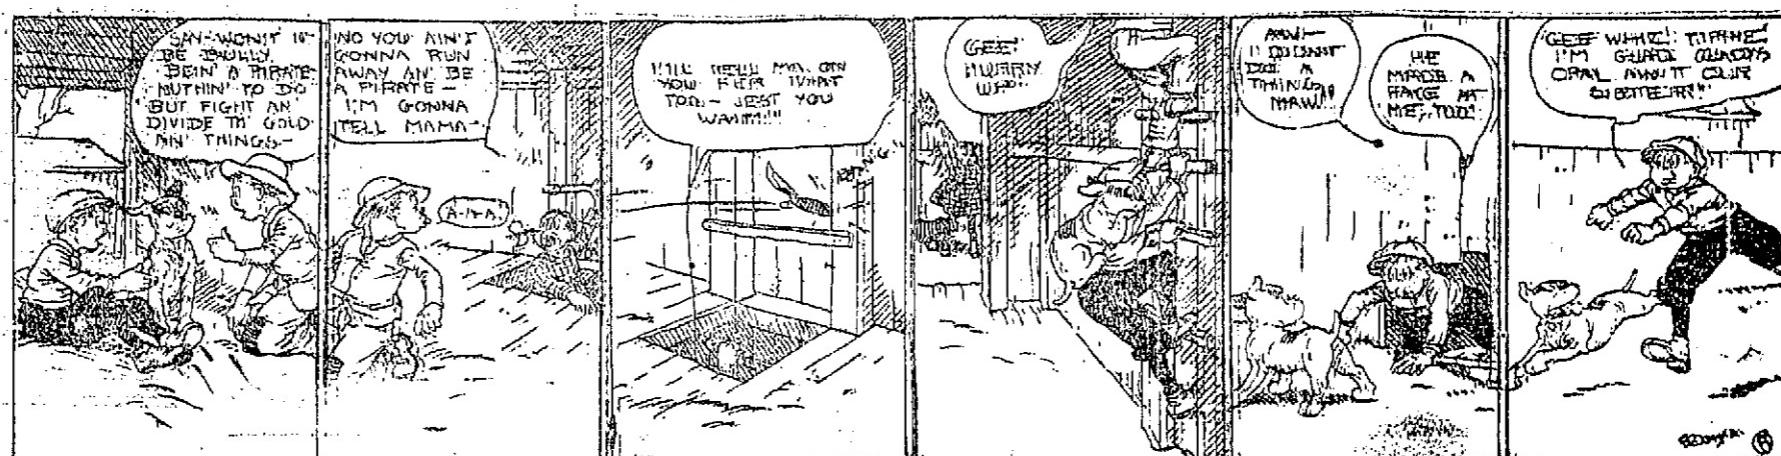

Two of the world's loveliest faces: JUSTINE JOHNSON (above) and HUGUETTE DUFLOR (below).

PARIS.—A controversy as to whether the French or American type is the more charming is being waged between French and American artists. Justine Johnson of New York has been chosen as Miss America candidate and Miss Huguette Dufour, said to be the most beautiful actress in France, is the French representative. In picking perfection to pieces, the French say that Miss Johnson's strong, clear cut features are too masculine; to which the American critics retort that Miss Dufour's face lacks an appearance of strength.

And almost in the entrance way, about to pass through the revolving glass doors to the street, absorbed and gaily chatting together, they encountered Alonso Gray and a handsomely dressed woman. A happy exclamation burst from Lucy and she started forward with a delighted greeting.

"Why, it's your husband—it's Mr. Gray!"

But her words died on her lips. Alice Gray's fingers closed like a vice upon her arm, and the hand dragged her aside. Something ugly and unpleasant flashed into Lucy's mind. There was a whirling silence, a dizzying moment while her pulse raced, and her breath was still. Then, unconscious and still chattering amably, Alonso Gray and his companion passed into the street.

"Two, please—and in the corner, like these upholstered seats." Alice Gray composedly addressed herself to the head waiter, and secretly followed him into the cool and flower-scented restaurant.

"Come, Lucy."

Lucy, shaken, bewildered, the significance of what had occurred still half guessed, mechanically obeyed. Mechanically she unclasped her hands, mechanically she pushed stray locks of hair up under her hat, mechanically she ordered. But when the ubiquitous hand waiter had murmured, "Please, madame," and had departed, she could only keep her eyes on her plate, and sit long-silently, fearing of any comment she might hazard, miserably conscious of what must be her friend's humiliation and discomfiture. That unquestionably had been Alonso Gray's, and the woman with him had been—Lucy knew with unmistakable intuition, that the woman was not of her world, or of the world of decent women. After had seen it all; she had understood, and had saved Lucy from precipitating a frighteningly embarrassing encounter.

"My dear—my dear—" Alice Gray laid her hand on Lucy's arm. "You mustn't feel so badly. I understand what's passing in your mind—but, my dear, you mustn't concern yourself on my account . . . I know; I know all about it."

Lucy met her friend's unctuous gaze with whining eyes and pursed lips. Alice smiled at her, a wry, twisted little smile.

"Oh, yes, I know all about it, and—I don't care! Alonso is all that I need in a husband; he is considerate, attentive, deferential; he tries to be rich me, and to have me with him, and he loves me. Oh, yes, he does;

there have been women in Alonso's life! This one happens to be a career artist. Alonso employs her as a doctor. I never knew her name. She's Alice Edithian. You know, Bernadine, the operatic singer? She's his divorced wife, and is quite promiscuous. Alonso has been—well, attentive to her for more than a year. Of course, he has no idea I know anything about it, and I couldn't bring him suspect I've learned for anything in the world. You see, he wouldn't want to hurt me, and he would think that if I knew, I would be offended. But I have no more feeling of jealousy for this passing fancy of his than I would have for a good cigar to enjoy after dinner. . . . Oh, I know my views are anything but conventional. I am shocking you!" Alice interrupted herself, smiling a rather hard, cold little smile. "It would shock most women. But I believe altogether too much emphasis is placed upon fidelity in marriage. As long as my husband in no way jeopardizes my rights as his lawful wife, why should I concern myself with what he does outside his home? Frankly, I would rather have him unfaithful to me in an occasional way, as he is, than have him drink himself into bestedness, is many a man does, and bring home to me a throbbing head, a nasty temper, and a rancid breath. Alonso satisfies me; he more than adequately fulfills his part of life's companion with me. I am thoroughly content; what else matters?"

Her own apartment smelled close to Lucy, when, later the same day, she closed the door behind her. It seemed cheerless, empty, desolate. The mood with which Alonso Gray had infected her all day, dropped from her like a stone suddenly falling to the floor.

She put away her things and set about getting dinner, washing the dishes, whipping the unmade beds together, setting the table. After all, her husband was probably no worse than any other woman's. She made him a pan of hot biscuits, of which she knew he was particularly fond.

At six o'clock, she heard him come in. She heard his creaking steps to the closet where he always hung his hat and coat; she heard him break his way back to the front room where she knew he had thrown himself down on the sofa, and was reading the evening paper with feet propped over one hard-upholstered arm. He had no word of greeting for her; he would have none; a dark and silent silence would envelop him for days to come.

She put the food on the table at the half-hour, and called him to dinner. He did not stop to wash his face or comb his hair; he came just as he was, silently, silently, and unclipped his chute up to his place.

Suddenly something snapped in her. She screamed; she screamed piteously; she screamed piteously; she buried her face in her hands, forcing the fingers deep into her eyeballs. Then she began to sob, brokenly, passionately; all the grief pent up in her burst out in an agony of weeping.
